Pollution situation is 'bleak'

(Editor's note: this is the first of a series on some of the mitigation measures for environmental problems discussed in the revised general plan approved last Monday by the city Pleasanton City Council.)

PLEASANTON — The environmental element of the general plan approved by the city council Monday night lists a few mitigating measures for growth's effects on air pollution, but admits the situation is bleak.

The biggest step taken has been reducing the city's ultimate holding capacity from 122,000 to 76,000 people (48,000 by 1996), according to the environmental element.

The city also has plans to build the Stoneridge Drive and Las Positas Boulevard overcrossings at Interstate 680. This will save about 30,000 vehicle miles traveled when the city is fully developed. BART in the year 2000 will save an additional five to 11 percent in vehicle miles traveled.

But beyond the slower growth goals, BART and the two overpasses, the city has not done anything to cut future smog, according to the environmental element.

The element outlines what the city faces: the valley must by federal edict cut hydrocarbon emissions by 75 or 80 percent. Using that standard, there can be growth only if current vehicle miles traveled are held constant or reduced, says the report.

Rapid development of housing in the near future would work against this goal, says the element. Growth between now and 1980 will have twice as bad an effect on the air as the same amount of growth between 1985 and 1990. That's because the stronger auto emission controls won't start having a strong overall effect until the late 1980's.

Besides the implication that growth should be very slow in the near future, the only other specific mitigation measure mentioned in the element is cluster development.

For example, the city could encourage commercial development in one spot and not approve any more neighborhood shopping centers, except for local convenience markets. This could assist in the development of a local transit system which would reduce further the projected number of vehicle miles traveled, says the element.

Industrial growth should be screened carefully to keep out smoggy uses, says the report. It lists a variety of industries with a report card on how each does in terms of emissions. High marks go to furniture, apparel, metals fabrications, and transportation equipment. —by Ron McNicoll

City sends supplies

Bound for Guatemala: One-third of the City of Livermore's emergency hospital supplies, including 120 blankets, 50 cots, 150 sheets, 240 pillow cases and 20 pillows. Here, Ray Ansick and Bill Mills of the city maintenance department stencil each box with the words "From Sister City — Livermore, Cal." while maintenance superintendent C.T. Carlin, also transportation chief for Civil Defense, supervises the preparations. The shipment was driven by maintenance worker Anthony Escalona to San Francisco in a lumbering road-patching truck that was pressed into service for the emergency. (Times photo)

Two GOP foes for Mori

Two Hayward Republicans have announced intentions to run in the June primary for the Republican nomination for Assembly District 15.

The Alameda County Registrar of Voters reported David W. Funsch and Robert E. Wirt filed "declaration of intention" papers yesterday.

The winner in the Republican primary will face incumbent Democrat Floyd Mori in a November run-off, unless Mori is upset by a write-in candidate in the June primary.

Funsch is chairman of the Alameda County Young Republicans and is a student.

Wirt ran unsuccessfully for the BART board last year.

Albany horse races to come to Pleasanton?

The possibility exists the 92-day Golden Gate Fields horse racing season could be switched to Pleasanton's Fairgrounds track.

However, the possibility is remote as negotiations resumed at mid-afternoon yesterday on l'affaire Golden Gate Fields, the Albany turf emporium that was struck earlier this month.

Charges and counter charges filled the air prior to Wednesday's resumption of negotiations. Three of the 92-day season have already gone by the boards.

Richard Groulx, executive secretary of the Alameda County Central Labor Council, allegedly charged that the GGF management has refused to bargain with the striking unions in order to clear the way for a takeover of the operation by Eastern racing interests.

The charges were purportedly contained in a telegram to Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr. Pacific Racing Association president Kjell H.

Qvale denied the charges in a followup telegram.

An assistant to Groulx told The Times late Wednesday that no such proposal, to move the Golden Gate Fields race season to Pleasanton, was made by Groulx.

However, he said a man passing himself off as a "money man" for the track told the California Horse Racing Commission he stood ready to bank roll a season at Pleasanton. The man was described as about 6-2, gray hair, slender and with a name sounding like "Coglan."

Local Fair Association representatives could not pinpoint who the person might be. Also, no one associated with the Alameda County Fair Association board or management were known to have attended the meeting held at Albany City Hall Wednesday morning.

The California Horse Racing Commission has the power to assign racing dates and act on reas-signing dates.

Groulx's assistant conjectured the panel, assuming a settlement in the next few days, could make up the lost racing dates by holding the race cards on Mondays. Racing is normally held five days a week, Tuesday through Saturday.

A San Jose newspaper had quoted Groulx as suggesting the Pacific Racing Association dates be moved to Pleasanton. "We feel that Pleasanton's facilities are adequate, and we will have an organization which can properly back and support such a meet," Groulx is alleged to have said.

Just one day of racing at a major track such as Golden Gate Fields generates millions of dollars in income. Moving of such a meeting to Pleasanton could approach the multi-million figure, as supported by past crowd and pari-mutuel counts at the Pleasanton track during the Fair season.

Ways to finance pipe told

PLEASANTON — Three methods of financing the proposed effluent disposal pipeline were presented to the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency board Tuesday night.

The agency's financial consultants, Stone and Youngberg, delivered a draft report on the financing alternatives, but made no recommendations on which method should be selected.

Sizing of the outfall line and the cost of the project must be known before the consultants can come up with a final financing plan.

Other than general obligation bonds, there are three ways to finance the disposal system which may cost in excess of $22 million:

- Revenue bonds. These, the consultant explained, are the most common form of financing for this kind of project, except for general obligation bonds. Revenues are created by charging for use of the facilities. Voter approval usually is required and the project must be okayed by the State Regional Water Quality Control Board.

- Special Assessment bonds. These are used mostly for projects such as municipal gutters and curbs, and are difficult to apply to sewage facilities.

Under this method, each piece of property owned by the bond holder has an assessment levied against it. The assessment is payable over a period of years.

If payments are not made, the owner of the property may be foreclosed upon.

- LAVWA as a non-profit corporation. This unusual method of financing a sewer facility has been done in Concord, but new Internal Revenue Service regulations make it difficult to become a non-profit corporation.

The process is time-consuming and approval must be secured from the IRS, the Securities and Exchange Commission, and a number of other regulatory agencies.

In a lease agreement between the non-profit corporation and the users, users would in effect agree to pay rent annually on the disposal system. That rent would be equal to the principle and interest due on the facilities.

Each method has its problems, the consultant noted. He said a final decision would not be made until a decision has been made on disposal capacity.

The consultants must also know also how much aid can be expected from the State and Federal governments which bear 87.5 per cent of the financing costs.

The remaining 12.5 per cent will be paid by local agencies.

Pipeline capacity is estimated now to be approximately 14 million gallons per day.

LAVWA is awaiting word from the Environmental Protection Agency on which disposal alternative and what capacity it will fund.

The East Bay Dischargers Authority is also anxious to know LAVWA's capacity needs, since effluent carried by the LAVWA pipeline out of the valley will link up with the EBDA interceptor in Castro Valley.

EBDA told the LAVWA board Tuesday night it will begin drawing up final plans and specifications for its own pipeline within the next month.

LAVWA's capacity needs may determine whether the EBDA pipeline should be increased from 78 inches to 84 inches in diameter.

LAVWA's share of the EBDA interceptor cost has yet to be determined. An EBDA official said three cost appraisal methods are being considered.

The lowest cost to LAVWA, after State and Federal grants, would be $200,000. The highest cost might be as much as $500,000.

Fair directors to re-bid bar concession

Alameda County Fair Association directors have decided to hold a re-bid on the bar concession contract for 1976 after a prolonged discussion Tuesday night that included an unexpected presentation from one of the bidders, Bill Peluso, Sr.

Earlier, directors had received a recommendation to take the proposal made by Hillside Catering of Albany, one that would carry for two years at $75,000 each year and 45.55 per cent.

Peluso, Sr., had made a one-year proposal of an $82,500 guarantee or 43 per cent of gross sales, which ever was greater. Hillside had submitted both one and two-year proposals, the former being $70,000 or 44 per cent of gross for one year.

A mixup apparently occurred over what type of proposals were to be accepted. Hall said at the outset, though, the administration had stated it would consider proposals on either one or two-year basis. A second misunderstanding apparently involved a mistake in transmission of figures between Peluso and his secretary.

Hillside had the potentially lucrative bar concession in 1974 and Peluso, Sr., last year.

Speaking in defense of his proposal, Peluso, Sr., said his relation with the local union and Joe Medeiros might be stronger than others.

But director Jack Brooks asked if all parties concerned understood the same specifications, and why the directors sub-committee decided on a two-year proposal rather than a one-year.

Hall explained the latter by saying it was to "avoid the yearly hassle." Hall added that preparing specifications for the bar concession amounted to 25 pages.

In other business, Fair directors approved extension of a lease agreement with Roller Faire for the period Jan. 1 to Dec. 31 of 1977 at a monthly rate of $668.53 plus payment of all utilities.

Hall reported the L-shaped horse paddock plans have been approved by the State Horse Racing Board and construction is underway.

Nine new floodlight polls have been recommended for the main walkway area into the grounds. Monies are already budgeted for the project which would increase foot-candle power from 1 to 6.

Name of the former Home Arts Building has been changed to Hall of Commerce. Hall also reported the annual mineral and gem show would be held in the Young California Building March 5-7.

Directors learned it would cost $5,000 to $6,000 to add new soil at the race track. The Pleasanton fair uses "Antioch sand," as do most other tracks now, according to maintenance superintendent Lou Alexander.

Directors also approved a recommendation that the carnival grounds not be relocated. Hall said the $315,000 in the budget for this would be put toward reinstatement of the Amador Livestock Pavilion project in the capital improvement schedule.

The State has already authorized $80,000 for the project. Original project estimate for the new livestock pavilion was $485,000.

Directors have decided to do away with a 1976 Fair booklet such as was produced in '75 Proposal for a '76 book was made by Jim Zeno.

Hall also reported a retirement dinner had been scheduled for Wednesday, March 18 at Castlewood Country Club for Judge William Gale. He is also a member of the Fair Board of Directors.

The annual chamber of commerce managers and presidents dinner is slated for March 24 at the Fairgrounds cafeteria.

Jury lambasts Santa Rita:—Houchins agrees

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — A grand jury report on the county's Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center lashes out at "already intolerable" conditions at the "medieval" facility — particularly the booking office.

Sheriff Tom Houchins, pointing out several compliments to his force in the report, said yesterday he "certainly concurs" with the jury's findings.

The report recommends the jail be used for pre-trial detention "only" if a "very significant cost saving" is realized over building a pre-trial facility at the Hayward Court House.

It takes special aim at the booking office in arguing that "public safety demands immediate action to remedy the dangerous, volatile situation that exists" in the "single most volatile spot in the entire jail complex."

It was released Tuesday and read to the board of supervisors by jurymen William A. Jenkins, chairman of the administration of justice committee.

The 19 member panel made repeated references to "the best efforts of a conscientious staff," and "no evidence of brutality ... inefficiency ... (and) unprofessional conduct."

The booking station has come under recent attack with a suit filed by Alameda County Planning Commissioner George Spiliotopoulos. The former mayor pro tem of Pleasanton alleges he was roughed up and beaten there last July following his arrest on charges of reckless driving.

The report confirms Spiliotopoulos' descriptions of the segregation cell. It is "old (and) the tile and concrete are cracked."

It apparently sustains the planning commissioner's contentions of holding cells in saying they "are not built to handle the loads. The corridor outside the cells is narrow and walled by old jail hardware easily grasped by resisting prisoners."

The booking administration area itself is small and often crowded with deputies trying to process the loads of prisoners in the packed cells.

The jury is demanding a "plan of action" for renovation and expansion be evaluated and submitted to it within 60 days.

"The Grand Jury is extremely sensitive to the expenditure of taxpayers' money for anything that is not absolutely vital," the report continues. "It is only after long and careful deliberation, therefore, that the Grand Jury has come to the firm conclusion that public safety demands immediate action to remedy the dangerous, volatile situation that exists at the Santa Rita booking office."

The county will be sitting on a "powder keg" for the four years "at the earliest" it will take to complete alternate facilities.

Under State law, sentenced and unsentenced, pre-trial prisoners — those proven guilty and those accused — must be separated at all times. The problems in feeding, housing and transporting the two groups have proven monumental, according to the sheriff.

County supervisors want to build pre-trial facilities adjacent to court houses in Hayward, Berkeley, Oakland and the proposed East County Government Center in the valley. They have been reluctant to spend badly needed funds to upgrade Santa Rita since they plan first to remove unsentenced inmates then to tear down and rebuild the jail for those serving terms.

The report also recommends an upgrading of "media relations" by the sheriff's department.

In recommending "that procedures be swiftly instituted to focus responsibility" within the department to disseminate information to the press, the jury both compliments and chides Houchins for tours he started some eight months ago.

Deputies have been "constantly vilified by implication (and) are valiantly doing their best under frustrating conditions," according to the report.

"They deserve better. They deserve to have told the true story of conditions under which they work and the sometimes remarkable success of their efforts. And it is not enough to passively provide access to the media, although the Sheriff deserves credit for his efforts to phase into providing that access without endangering security or disrupting the jail. Commendable as that effort is, more positive action is required."

Again in agreement with Houchins, the jury wants to see a "brief-stay, half-way house" at the jail for psychiatric inmates to ease the transition from the guarded, psychological security of hospitals to hard jail life.

Jury members fear the board of supervisors will institute a 15 bed psychiatric infirmary at the jail rather than the transitory quarters.

The infirmary would be "a mistake," the report says. "Santa Rita already consists of two separate and distinct detention facilities ... Adding a third, separate jail for the mentally disturbed is highly questionable."

Funds would be better spent providing "necessary facilities, such as security arrangements, at a qualified hospital."

"We don't have the funds for what might be done," replied supervisor Joe Bort. "Five or six years ago (mentally disturbed inmates) would have been in State hospitals, but they closed the hospitals and now the county must pick up the tab."

Houchins will prepare a written response to the report. In the meantime he said he would send copies "to the troops" adding his comments on the jury's compliments of their conduct.

The board of supervisors, too, must respond to the report. Chairman Fred Cooper said draft written responses will be submitted to the board in the next weeks.

Nuclear dangers studied

An unpublished theory developed by Dr. Stirling Colgate about how an accident at a nuclear power plant might trigger a dangerous steam explosion has prompted a $100,000 research project on possible safety hazards.

The research is funded by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and is being conducted at Sandia Laboratories in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Dr. Colgate is a former Livermore resident and Lawrence Livermore Laboratory employee.

He joined LLNL in 1952, and is best known for his work in the Sherman project, a controlled thermonuclear reaction research program.

He left the lab in 1965 to become president of the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology.

The theory, first proposed by Dr. Colgate in a study of volcanoes, tries to explain why surprisingly large explosions sometimes occur when molten materials come into contact with water.

Officials at NRC said there is no evidence at this point to indicate the theory may be applied to nuclear power plants.

But critics of nuclear safety claim the hypothesis raises the spectre of nonnuclear explosions that could rend the walls of any of the 58 currently licensed reactors, and allow deadly radioactive materials to spread into the atmosphere.

In a 1973 paper, Colgate speculated that he called a "dynamic self-mixing effect," in which an initial mixing of molten materials and water produces a high-pressure steam that in turn causes more mixing in a kind of chain reaction.

Colgate further speculated in an unpublished paper how such an explosion might occur at a light water reactor plant in the unlikely event all cooling systems failed and uranium oxide was reduced to a molten mass, an accident known as "core meltdown."

In the February 1976 issue of Environment Magazine, author Kevin Shea said Dr. Colgate speculated that following a meltdown, the molten fuel would come into contact with water and might produce a large-scale steam explosion sufficient to tear apart the steel and concrete walls of a power plant.

The Reactor Safety Study estimates the frequency of core meltdowns to be about 1 in 20,000 per year for each operating plant. Dr. Colgate, unofficial consultant to NRC at Sandia, said he was pleased with research that was under way on his theory. But he feared Shea's article, which he had not seen, might exaggerate the danger.

"I do not like to be an alarmist, because I feel there has been a significant response to my concern at the national laboratories," Colgate told the Associated Press in a telephone interview from his home in Ward, Colorado.

Mrs. Ferris Keifer's class and the all-bean Liberty Bell

And Liberty Bells

They know their beans

DUBLIN — The first graders of Mrs. Ferris Keifer at Murray School know their beans ... and Liberty Bells.

All thirty members of Mrs. Keifer's class took different varieties of beans, such as Navy and kidney, and fashioned them into a Liberty Bell ... on a flat surface.

The colorful art project, with many autumn-colored beans, was then put in a frame by Richard Stark, father of one of the children. The Liberty Bell, which took two weeks to complete, is now on display in the Murray School office.

As a parallel project, the entire class is writing a history of the Liberty Bell, from its origin to present day.

Recently, the class gathered in the auditorium to have its picture taken with the Liberty Bell art project for The Times.

And years from now, when they're "big kids," all can look back and tell their friends how they learned about the Liberty Bell ... and how to make one out of beans!

Margaret Rauchman

Margaret Lillian Rauchman, 50, a native of Detroit, Mich., and 13 year Livermore resident, died Tuesday in an Oakland hospital following a short illness.

Survivors include her daughters, Julie Rauchman of Livermore and Mrs. Cheryl Kear of New Mexico; her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Varga, Hollywood, Fla.; brothers Elmer and Roger Getyna of Bay City, Mich., and Ocean Side, Calif., respectively, and four granddaughters.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m., Friday, in the Drawing Room Chapel of Callaghan Mortuary, 3833 East Ave., Livermore. Interment in St. Michael's Cemetery, Livermore, will follow.

Alexander Beach

Alexander L. Beach, 70, died early Wednesday morning in Valley Memorial Hospital.

A native of Connecticut, Beach was a ten-year resident of Livermore. He worked as a chemist for forty years at Bell Telephone Laboratories.

He was a member of the Pioneers Club, Jewett Chapter, an association of retired Bell Lab employees.

Beach is survived by his wife Emma, daughter Grace, sister Vivian, and grandchildren Eric and James, all of Livermore. Also survived by his brother Richard of Long Island, New York.

Private inurnment will be held at West Cemetery in Bristol, Connecticut at a later time.

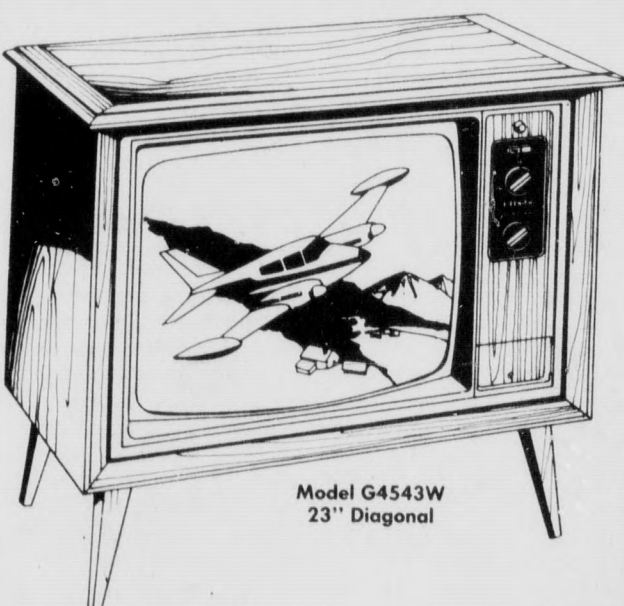

Arrangements under the direction of Livermore Mortuary.

Hayden to speak Tuesday

PLEASANTON — Senatorial candidate Tom Hayden will speak in Pleasanton on Feb. 17, Assemblyman Mori's office announced yesterday.

In a release printed on Mori's letterhead, it was reported Hayden will speak at the Pleasanton Elementary School, 4750 First St., Pleasanton at 8 p.m. next Tuesday evening.

The Assemblyman, however, rejected suggestions his press release constitute an endorsement of Hayden, who is challenging incumbent John Tunney for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

"That release is very far from an endorsement," Mori said yesterday. "I was surprised to see the information put out under my name." Rather, Mori said he was working with the Democratic clubs in the valley to drum up interest in the Democratic party.

"I wanted my staff to make sure the clubs' event got enough publicity," Mori said.

The Pleasanton, Livermore and Danville Democratic Clubs are co-sponsoring Hayden's talk.

"We're trying to get Senator Tunney and some presidential candidates to address the clubs," said Mori, "and I would give them the same publicity we've given Hayden."

The Feb. 17 meeting is open to the public. Hayden's speech will be followed by a question and answer period.

Numismatics?

The name of the game is numismatics, and it's got people of all ages hooked.

Numismatics is of course, a fancy name for the age-old hobby of coin and medal collecting. Evelyn Prudhon of Livermore was drawn into the ranks of numismatists when her sons left home for the Armed Forces and asked her to look for certain coins to complete their collections in their absence.

Barry Stallard, an employee at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, caught the bug when as a child he inherited an odd assortment of old coins from his grandfather. A student of Russian language and history in college, he began to specialize in collecting Russian coins.

Young Herb Schwarz was captured in the numismatic web at a tender age when he discovered his father's collection of World War II medals. His latest acquisition is a German Knight's Cross of the Order of the Iron Cross with oak leaf cluster, a gift from a retired Nazi general.

Numismatists represent a broad spectrum of individuals, but invariably they share a common interest in history, a penchant for order and "completion," and a romantic yen for speculating about the hands through which medal or coin has passed. They are also individuals who enjoy the social interplay which accompanies the continuous trading, or bartering, necessary to expand their collections.

No wonder then that the numismatists of Livermore have formed the Livermore Valley Coin Club under the sponsorship of the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District. The club welcomes collectors of all ages and backgrounds to its meetings on first Mondays at the recreation center at 7:30 p.m.

Numismatists possess one other shining characteristic — they love to share their interest with other people!

The Livermore Valley Coin Club hosts its annual show this Sunday (Feb. 15) at the Livermore Holiday Inn. The show is open free to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and features displays by members of coins and medals including Chinese, U.S. gold and commemorative, and foreign coins, as well as curios which represent the beginnings of money.

Members compete for a Best of Show award, and honors in senior and junior divisions. Guests may participate in a drawing for U.S. gold coins.

Special guest and mascot of the show is Rudy Gjurovich of the San Jose area known as "The King of the Coin Collectors."

Local Salvation Army served 2,248 last year

Shirley Casterson of the Pleasanton Salvation Army Extension Committee reports that 1975 represented a year of increased need for basic necessities by the less fortunate members of the community, and a year of increased sharing of material goods through the committee.

The committee recently submitted its annual report to the San Francisco Salvation Army Headquarters which provides partial funding to meet emergency needs of Pleasanton residents. The remainder of the funds comes from community organizations and youth groups, notably the Pleasanton Junior Women's Club.

A summary of the committee's report shows a total of 2,248 persons were served, $2,990 was expended, and $2,778 in donated material was recorded. A total of $3,520 was received in cash donations from the Pleasanton community.

"It has been amazing and most heartening this year to see just how much people have cared and shared to do the work needed here for lower income families, due to the high cost of living and the unemployment situation," says Mrs. Casterson, who is welfare secretary of the committee.

Mrs. Casterson reports that in 1975 emergency food was received by 992 persons of all ages, and through donations from a Kilpatrick's salesman and Lucky's Market 880 loaves of bread were distributed.

Fourteen families received furniture including bedroom sets, baby cribs and highchairs. Excellent clothing was distributed to approximately 800 people, of which 50 were senior citizens and 500 were children.

Emergency dental aid was given in the amount of $300, with $100 of that aid donated by the Pleasanton Soroptimist Club, and part of the aid donated by a local dentist. Gasoline orders assisted 103 persons to look for jobs or be interviewed for welfare benefits.

The Thanksgiving drive spearheaded by local churches and employees of Liberty House benefited 21 families. Extra clothing was shared with the Clothing Closet at Komandorski Village, which is maintained by volunteers. Clothing is available free of charge at the Clothing Closet to any family with a reference from a valley agency.

Through the Salvation Army Extension Committee, 50 persons were referred to other agencies for special needs. In addition, the Junior Women's Club organized and solicited funds for the annual Christmas program, with the assistance of the Jaycee Wives.

According to Mrs. Casterson, the committee continues to need support from the community in the form of cash and material donations, and volunteer assistance.

Cash donations may be sent to the care of Paul Kral, Bank of America, P.O. Box 10, Pleasanton. Donations of non-perishable food items, household goods or clothing may be left with Mrs. Casterson at 4849 Valley Ave., Pleasanton.

Call 846-2051 before the delivery of items.

Items especially in demand are box springs and mattresses, baby accessories, lamps, tables, chairs, chests and kitchen accessories. Food items needed include canned fruits, vegetables, soups, spaghetti, tomato sauce, beans, rice, powdered milk, peanut butter, cheese, oatmeal and sugar.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR

When you suspect that you have a hearing problem, you should see your family doctor, who will likely refer you to an ear specialist. If your hearing loss is of the type which can be benefited by medical treatment or surgery, the specialist may recommend one of these solutions. If not, he may recommend that you try a hearing aid. Today's tiny hearing aids can be worn inconspicuously, with greater ease, comfort and convenience than ever before.

Less than half pass proficiency exam

Of the 48 students taking the California Proficiency Examination in December at the Amador test station, only 19 achieved passing scores and, thus, are eligible to leave high school immediately.

The Amador Valley Joint High School District reports that a total of 93 were eligible to take the test. Eligibility requires the student be either 16 or 17 years of age, can certify this, and remits an application fee.

Barely half the number, 48, are enrolled at Amador district schools.

Students passing can now leave school with a "Certificate of Proficiency," legally an equivalent of a high school diploma. They must obtain a parent or guardian's signature in order to leave school.

A second California Proficiency Test is scheduled for March 27 with Amador again expected to be a test station for valley students. Deadline for applying is March 5.

State officials estimate that about 12,000 students will take it. It will be given four times during the 1976-77 school year and at least that often afterwards.

Close to 6,000 students, statewide, passed the initial test in December.

The 200-question, four-hour test is designed to measure whether 16- and 17-year-old students have attained "an acceptable level of proficiency in the basic skills taught in public high schools." Students who pass are given the equivalent of diplomas which will be accepted by community colleges for admission.

Only 45 per cent of the more than 12,000 students who took the test passed it. This means that only about 6,000 scattered about the state will be allowed to leave school early.

School officials have been fearful that the test would cause a mass exodus at mid-year ... into a job market that could not absorb relatively unskilled young workers.

About 1,100 students took the test at eight East Bay test sites, including Amador and Hayward.

A check of those Amador district students taking the test in December showed a majority were attending Amador Valley High School.

ASC County committee awarded $20,678

August M. Hagemann, chairman of the Alameda ASC County Committee announced that Alameda County Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) for 1976 will be funded at $20,678, the County ASCS Office reported.

"The objective of the program is to obtain needed conservation on farm-lands beyond that which the farmer would accomplish with his own resources," Hagemann stated.

The program, administered by ASCS, offers annual conservation agreements with farmers. Cost-sharing will be 50 percent of the cost of carrying out approved soil, water and woodland conservation practices.

Hagemann noted that the sign-up period for filing requests to participate in the 1976 ACS will be held between February 9 and 27. The requests filed will be for practices to be performed during 1976 that are needed on the farm to conserve soil, water and wildlife and to reduce pollution. Requests will not be approved on a first-come, first-served basis.

Mayor pro-tem now vice mayor

PLEASANTON — The city lost its mayor pro-tempore Monday, but it gained a vice-mayor.

Mayor Ed Kinney suggested changing the title of the council's number two officer because the title "mayor pro-tempore" sounds "like the mayor died and someone is taking his place temporarily."

"Vice-mayor sounds more like what the job entails," added Kinney. Councilman Roger McLain backed up Kinney. "I looked it up in the dictionary and vice-mayor is more appropriate," he said.

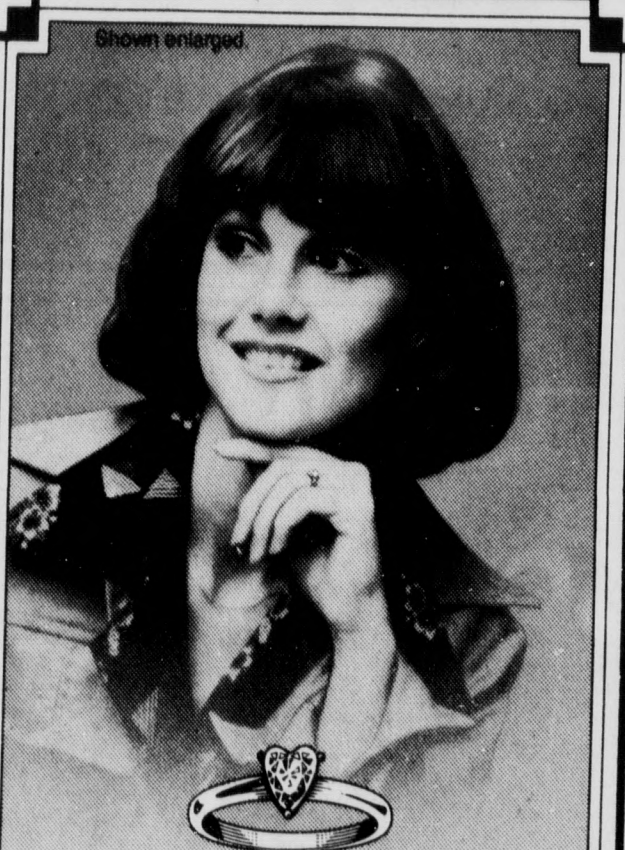

The city's vice-mayor is William Herlihy, who had no objection to the change in his title.

Pleasanton Playhouse comedy director has a bundle of experience

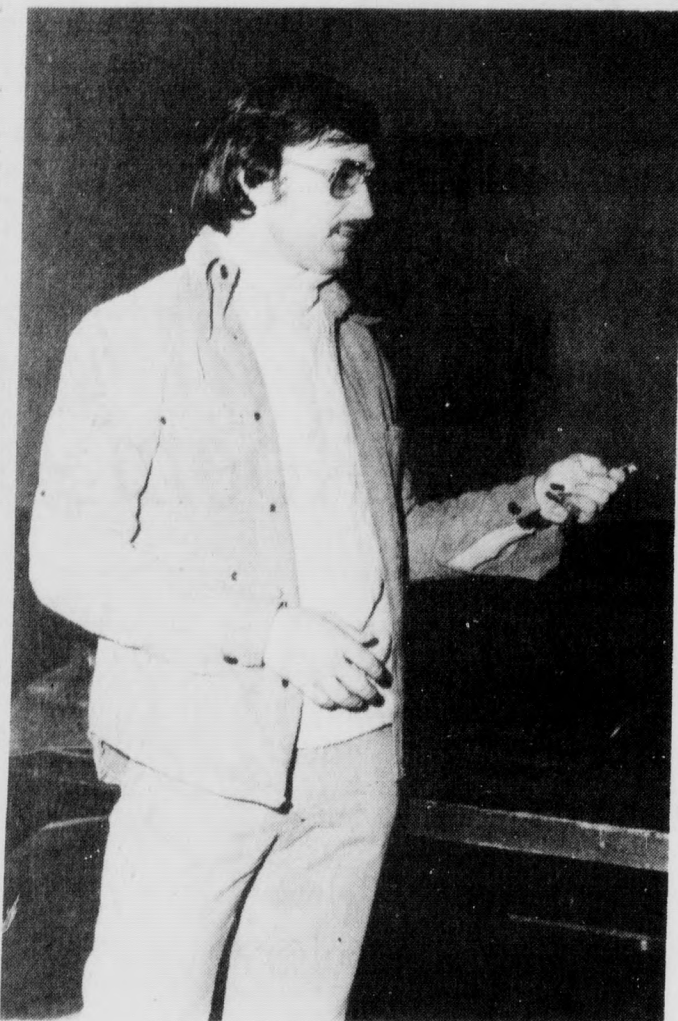

By AL FISCHER

A perusal of Cliff Beyer's "list of credits" would lead one to believe that the man must be on the brink of cashing in on Social Security rather than still on the sunny side of 30.

Beyer has dabbled in virtually every phase of "show biz" enroute from Nutley, N.J., to Pleasanton, Calif. — with intermediate stops at Custer, S.D., and Minneapolis.

When Beyer says he's more photographable "when on the move," he's not kidding. Fact is, that's his only speed — on the move.

If you've got two or three hours, I can list all the director of "Don't Drink The Water" 's credits.

DIRECTOR CLIFF BEYER

The slender, blue-eyed singer-actor-dancer and all-round entrepreneur is charged with putting together the latest Pleasanton Playhouse production in a venue that isn't necessarily the best place for ANY type of theater — the dining area of a country club.

But Beyer isn't concerned with the improbable. He just attempts the impossible.

Chances are, 'long about March 5, the impossible will have been surmounted.

"Don't Drink The Water" is a laugh-a-minute product of the insane mind of one Woodrow Allen — involving all sorts of lovable loonies in the guise of spies, diplomats and lovely ladies.

Beyer is presently trying to put together a dinner-theater in Contra Costa County labeled Melody Gardens with the "Blue Reflections," a musical group he created, serving as the resident group.

A graduate of the University of South Dakota with a bachelor's in radio, television and film and a masters in theatre directing, Beyer has worked with the Theatre of Involvement in Minneapolis, the Black Hills Playhouse at Custer, S.D., North Suburban Community Theatre in Minneapolis and a USO tour six years ago in "Call Me Madam."

He trained for three years with Graham Thatcher, presently with the Tyrone Guthrie Theatre, in acting, voice and speech, had 2½ years of training in singing at South Dakota, and three years of jazz, tap and modern dance instruction.

He is quite proficient in French, German, Irish and Cockney dialects.

Beyer lists roles in Five Finger Exercise, Cyrano De Bergerac, Indians, Dames At Sea, Call Me Madam, Fiddler On The Roof, How to Succeed, Celebration and as a singer and dancer with the Now Company Singers based in San Francisco.

His theatrical background also extends to scenic design, lighting, special effects, properties and public relations.

And he's just 28 — an age when most "show biz" types are still cutting their acting teeth or hoping for the one big break.

"Don't Drink The Water" represents Beyer's fourth directing stint.

His first came while at the University of Toledo with Lord Halewyn. He was student director of Plaza Suite at South Dakota and directed Winners for television as part of his masters thesis at USD.

Beyer's approach to directing, at least with the current Playhouse production, is to develop a total, warm family feeling among the cast. He uses "improvisation" as a warmup.

"I want all cast members to have an equal 'feel' for the show," espouses Beyer. "It's everybody's production, even though there are larger and smaller roles."

Among the challenges at present are fitting the production to Sunol Valley Country Club — "It's extremely difficult to do comedy with staging on three sides, you tend to lose gag lines" — and working out "Jewish Jersey" accents — the show calls for a New Jersey couple going behind the Iron Curtain and the resultant escapades they are a part of.

Beyer has a pre-show run through set for the 28th at Veterans Memorial Building and a final dress rehearsal March 4 at Sunol.

teaching movement, voice and acting techniques at Cal. Scenic designs are by Richard C. Placek, lighting by Robert Dietle and costumes by John C. Gikerson.

The production returns to the Civic Arts stage in Walnut Creek on Feb. 19, 20 and 21.

Current production center stage is "The Matchmaker," which plays tonight, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

MARQUEE — California High School's dramatists will present Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" April 1-3 at the school auditorium in San Ramon ... Festival/Stage II at the Oregon Shakespearean Festival in Ashland, Oregon, begins a two-month run Friday night with portions of The Comedy of Errors, The Devil's Disciple, and Ibsen's Brand. Ticket info is available through Civic Arts Theatre, 1641 Locust St. in Walnut Creek ... The Diablo Symphony, sponsored by the AAUW, performs Saturday, Feb. 21 at 8 p.m. at Monte Vista High School in Danville ... Performances of "Don't Drink The Water" in March will be dinner-theater style at Sunol Valley Country Club ... This is our weekend to go south for a little theatre, during which time we'll see "Raisin" at the Schubert and "Dear Liar" at the Huntington Hartford. "Raisin" comes to San Francisco on March 2 for two weeks. It's a musical adaptation of Lorraine Hansberry's "Raisin in The Sun."

Bound by bonds of jealousy and revenge are Joanna Kirk as the vengeful Eleanor, Queen of England, and her bitter sons (Bob Hilden and Joe McClinton) in the Civic Arts Repertory Company's production of 'The Lion in Winter' at Walnut Creek.

NICK DISCALA

BRUCE PRUETT

TERRI AVERY

CAROL WOLFRAM

Introducing the cast of 'Don't Drink the Water'

By AL FISCHER

NICK DISCALA is a double threat, being a real comer on either clarinet or tenor sax and now honing his skills with dialogue and stage movement.

A senior at Amador Valley High School, Nick plays the part of Axel Magee in "Don't Drink The Water." His last role was in the Amador summer session production of "The Boy Friend." His first footlights experience came in "Annie Get Your Gun."

Nick played in the orchestra for the Pleasanton Playhouse's "The King and I." He plans to attend San Francisco State and major in music and drama.

Here is a young man to watch, starting with his portrayal of the Ambassador's son in "Don't Drink The Water."

Amador Valley High's "Best Thespian of 1970" will make his return to the valley theatrical scene in "Don't Drink The Water."

Another one of the dozens of accomplished thespians turned out by Adele Denny, BRUCE PRUETT returns to the stage after a three-year stint with the Army.

While in Heidelberg, Germany, Pruett played the part of Felix in a production of "The Odd Couple." Thus, he is no stranger to comedic roles.

Currently a student at Chabot College, Pruett hopes to major in psychology when he transfers to San Jose State.

What with his background — he was a Military Policeman while in the service — Bruce should fit the role of the "heavy" in the Pleasanton Playhouse production to perfection.

LOVELY CAROL WOLFRAM is no stranger to Pleasanton Playhouse productions.

From one of the wives in "The King and I" and a villager in "Fiddler On The Roof," Carol has proven a consistent and dependable performer, possibly highlighted by her performance as a belly dancer in earlier productions that included "Man of La Mancha" and "Celebration."

Her role in "Don't Drink The Water" calls for more dialogue and versatility, two challenges that director Cliff Beyer is confident Carol will handle in stride.

A graduate of San Francisco U. with a bachelor's in sociology, she works in the field services section of public works for the City of Pleasanton.

Aside from "walking across the stage" in a Castlemont High production of "Guys and Dolls" in 1967, TERRI AVERY is a neophyte to the glare of stage lights.

The attractive, dark-haired Terri did makeup for "The King and I" and has "always wanted to act." She'll get her chance as "Ms. Kilroy" in the Woody Allen farce playing next month at the Sunol Valley Country Club.

Terri was encouraged by Bev Hamlin to tryout and it resulted in her gaining director Cliff Beyer's approval.

Mother of an active 2-year-old, Terri resides in Pleasanton and formerly worked with Alameda County as a collection enforcement deputy ... not exactly a training grounds for aspiring actresses, or is it, Terri.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Pleasanton Playhouse production of "Don't Drink the Water" opens in March at the Sunol Valley Country Club.

Public meeting to set local

Valley residents who are interested in bringing one or more performances of the Oakland Symphony into this area are asked to participate in a Feb. 18 gathering at which such a program will be discussed.

Representatives of the symphony had previously expressed interest in extending that program into this end of the county. Proposals for a concert, or series of smaller programs, were discussed informally at that time.

William Herlihy, Pleasanton's vice mayor and the acting chairman of the ad hoc group, has asked that "all interested residents in the Valley" attend the meeting set for Feb. 18, 8 p.m. at Century House, 2401 Santa Rita Rd. in Pleasanton.

Joint meeting set for artists

The Pleasanton Art League and the Livermore Art Association will convene a joint meeting Monday, Feb. 16 at the Cultural Arts Center in Pleasanton. Guest speaker will be Earl Thollander, a widely-traveled free-lance artist who works in watercolor and ink. He illustrated the Sunset publication "The Backroads of California," and has worked for the San Francisco Examiner for seven years.

The public is welcome to the 7:30 p.m. meeting at which an autographed copy of a Thollander book will be given away.

By AL FISCHER

Though the most complex of the company's 1976 schedule of productions, "The Lion in Winter" may well become a hallmark in the eight year history of the Civic Arts Repertory company.

"Lion" is at once sprightly and terrifying in its "message" — which basically describes the machinations of men and women, adult and youth, in their strivings for power.

James Goldman's drama, now sharing the Civic Arts Repertory stage in Walnut Creek with "The Matchmaker," portrays man as beastly, but glorifies his ability to twist defeat into ironic laughter. His characters remain proud and strong while looking their own ugliness in the face.

Set during the Christmas season of the late 1100s in France, "The Lion in Winter" unfolds as a King (King Henry II) and Queen struggle to hold the affections of their children — the family using provinces as weapons.

As Henry II, King of England, Del Curry is an unqualified success. A drama instructor at a Pleasant Hill high school, Curry's stage presence, vocal command and interplay with other members of the cast make the production go. A lesser man in this role could prevent the cohesiveness that Curry's portrayal brings to "Lion."

This is Curry's fifth appearance with Civic Arts Repertory, having previously appeared in The Taming of The Shrew, You Can't Take It With You, Long Day's Journey Into Night, and Under Milkwood.

The other six members of the cast carry difficult loads in relation to shaping the plot but must rely on Curry's performance to tie the show together effectively.

While each is a bit inconsistent in movement and voice, and hence believability, all enhance their reputations by final curtain.

Edie Finsilver, as the French princess Alais, is appropriately, cool, to Henry's wife Eleanor, lovely and warm as Henry's mistress; Joanna Kirk weaves a fine portrayal as Eleanor, mother of three very contrasting sons; and Joe McClinton scores as the middle son, Geoffrey, the black-bearded schemer.

Also taking substantial roles are Peter Crook, Bob Hilden and Anthony Powell.

The play is directed by Dana Evans, an actress and teacher with the American Conservatory Theatre for three years in the late 60s. An actress with theatre companies in Portland, Berkeley and Athens, Greece, she is currently

Dugan wins league title

A takedown was all Dublin's Kevin Dugan needed to post a 2-1 decision over Steve Jaeger of Granada in the highlight match of last night's EBAL wrestling tournament at Amador Valley High School.

Dugan remained undefeated in defeating Jaeger as EBAL champion Granada, although winning the team title, had a tough time in the championship matches.

Steve Potts of Amador

High opened up the championship matches by manhandling Granada's Felix Lopez 17-1 in the 98-pound clash. It was this same match in the Granada-Amador meet two weeks ago that Lopez was awarded a questionable victory, as the Mats went on to narrowly defeat the Dons.

Granada lost its second consecutive match of the evening in the 106-pound clash as San Ramon's

Mike Sitts decisioned Brett Nadeau of the Matadors 14-0.

San Ramon also emerged with two of the biggest upsets of the night as Dave Arrighi and Mark Voegli rolled to surprising easy victories in respective weight classes.

Arrighi pulled out a major upset in the 130-pound class by pinning Dave Potts of the Dons at 1:09 of the second round. Earlier in the day Arrighi had defeated top-seeded Naish Piazza of Livermore.

Voegli had rolled to a easy 10-0 victory over Curt Billingsley of Monte Vista in the 157-pound class.

Livermore enjoyed a good night as Darryl Payne brought home the Pokes' first medal in a 3-1 decision over Mike Sweetney of Amador in the 123-pound class.

Payne's win was followed by Ray Jenkins' decisive victory over Dave Daleheim of Amador in the 136-pound class, 9-4.

The Pokes made it three-for-three in the 148-pound division as Mike Lewis registered a 9-4 win over Don Vitsonof of Monte Vista.

Steve Ramos of San Ramon pulled out a 7-5 decision over Ray Pepi of Monte Vista in the 115-pound division. Pepi had escaped with 15 seconds remaining to tie the match but Ramos came back with a takedown to get the victory.

In the other matches, Amador's Eric Salmon and Benny Lefever recorded decisions over Brent Dixon and Jim Laflin of Granada, in the 141- and 178-pound classes respectively.

Livermore High's Gary Tennyson picked up the Pokes' fourth first-place medal by defeating Will Bawden of San Ramon, 9-4 in the heavyweight class.

Granada won the team crown with 143 points, followed by Livermore (112), Amador, (107 1/2); San Ramon, (93); Dublin, (85); Monte Vista, (66); Foothill, (42 1/2); California, 16. Ron Freeman picked up Granada's only win of the night with a first-round pin of Eric Larson of Amador.

Judge blocks Giant move

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former major league owner Robert Short and San Francisco businessman Robert Lurie brought an $8 million offer for the San Francisco Giants to court Wednesday and Judge John E. Benson issued an injunction blocking the proposed transfer of the baseball team to Toronto.

Short and Lurie were brought together at the last moment by San Francisco Mayor George Moscone, who took the stand first in Wednesday's Superior Court hearing and revealed their bid, which would match the basic offer of the Canadian group that includes Labatt's Breweries.

The offer by Short, former owner of the American League's Texas Rangers, and Lurie, a member of the Giants' board of directors, was not available in writing at the hearing. But Short said from the witness stand, "I'd be glad to do that if you'd give me four or five minutes."

The Canadian offer was accepted in principle Jan. 9 by Giants President Horace Stoneham and the team's board of directors, but a temporary restraining order obtained by the city three days later prevented the Giants from taking the offer to other National League owners for approval.

The Short-Lurie offer, of course, is subject to acceptance by the current Giants ownership and to the approval of the league.

Lurie, besides being on the team's board of directors, is a close friend of National League President Chub Feeney.

Short and Lurie met with a Giants' attorney, James Hunt, immediately after the court hearing. National League owners are scheduled to meet next Wednesday in Chicago, and 9 of the other 11 owners in the league must give approval for acceptance of any sale.

Short moved the Washington Senators to Texas in 1972 and sold his interest in that franchise in 1974.

The City of San Francisco, in seeking the preliminary injunction issued Wednesday, had cited the Giants' 35-year lease to play in city-owned Candlestick Park, specifically wording in which Stoneham promised the team would play nowhere else through 1994.

Short and Lurie said they would be equal partners in ownership of the Giants and would start interviewing candidates for the vacant manager's job as soon as possible. Spring training is scheduled to open in two weeks.

Mats topple Pokes

Autumn's promise became the hope of winter for Granada High last night as the Matadors delt Livermore a 66-56 defeat in EBAL basketball.

It was the first victory this year against any of the title contenders for Granada. The win also kept the Mats within two games of first place Amador.

The teams meet Friday night in Pleasanton.

Joe Wujek led Granada's suprising control offense with 17 points. Vance Rushing scored 12 and Mike Fracisco added 10.

Curt Groth scored 22 for Livermore and Ted Wood had 18.

Livermore came into the game relying on the same formula that produced a 14-point victory over Granada a month ago, a 1-3-1 zone defense, hard board work by Curt Groth and the scoring of Groth and Wood.

The Matadors spoiled the plan by abandoning their own scattergun offense for one of maturity and patience.

Granada worked the ball easily around the zone, firing up only 22 shots in the first half. The slow tempo lured Livermore out of its zone three minutes into the second period.

Once the Cowboys reverted to a man-to-man Granada's offense came alive.

With 1:57 left in the first half the Matadors went up by 10 points, 25-15, when Vance Rushing banked a 17-foot jumper from the right side of the key.

Granada converted just three field goals in the entire second quarter but capitalized on the man defense to convert nine free throws.

With Wood scoring six points in the final two minutes of quarter Livermore slashed Granada's halftime margin to 28-23.

Wood and Groth, as figured, dominated the Cowboy offense. Both had 10 points at intermission.

The Cowboys were cold from the floor, however, hitting just 22.8 percent of their first half shots.

Granada presented Livermore with a new alignment, moving guards Rushing and John Walden into the starting line-up.

The deployment paid dividends immediately when both men threw passes though the zone in the first quarter to set-up a pair of easy Lee Brennan field goals.

At halftime, Rushing had six points for Granada. Joe Wujek scored seven and played a tough board game, but sat down with three fouls at 1.33 of the second quarter.

Granada's slow-down offense produced another earlier contrast with the loss to Livermore. During the first two quarters the Matadors turned the ball over just four times. Livermore threw it away nine times in that same stretch.

MV girls nip Amador

Monte Vista's Carol Dolsby sank a jumper with 45 seconds remaining as the Mustangs held on to nip an upset-minded Amador club, 49-48, in edge-of-your-seat EBAL basketball action Tuesday night.

The victory upped the Monte Vista record to 9-1, as the Dons dropped into a tie with Livermore for third place.

Monte Vista led through-out the first half, but a 15-11 Amador scoring edge in the third period brought the Dons to within three points of the Mustang club at the buzzer. Amador, hampered by foul trouble as starters Carmen Macon and Debbie Oxsen left the game with four personals apiece, carried its momentum into the fourth quarter as Jamie Watson pumped in two field goals and a free throw, while teammate Cheryl Withoft added a bucket to tie it up, 38-38, with 3:38 remaining.

Monte Vista, meanwhile, resorted to an inside attack as guard Sue Collar penetrated Amador's defense for two buckets and seconds later went to the charity stripe for two more points, while teammate Laura Fumagalli added one to give the Mustangs the edge, 45-38, with 2:27 left on the clock.

Amador remained undaunted and answered with a bucket by Jamie Watson and a pair of Jayne Kuhns free throws, while Carolyn Hill added two points to pull the Dons within one point, 45-44.

Dons win

Almost in regular fashion, Amador Valley in a destructive frame of mind, produced a 74-58 win over Monte Vista High last night in a EBAL basketball game last night in Alamo.

Mike Hill led Amador with 22 points with Rob Yackley adding 18. Kevin Jones led Monte Vista with 15 and Bob Devencenzi added 11 for the Mustangs.

The Dons played well in the first half, extending plenty of offense in holding off an inspired Monte Vista team for a 33-14 advantage.

Furthermore, this half was a comedy trip of miss shots, erratic handling, lost opportunities and violations. Otherwise few dramatics.

As usual, the Dons broke fast, shot accurately and found Yackley, Sam Jorgensen and Hill inside for uncontested shots. Yackley was great in this sequence, hitting on some fine shots. Amador was 15 of 30 while Monte Vista was seven of 30 in the first half.

Gaels defeat Foothill

Handing an outmanned Foothill squad their 11th straight EBAL defeat Dublin High roared past the young Falcons 80-57 last night in the winners' gym. The Gaels, now 5-6 in EBAL action, featured a balanced scoring attack. Cliff Johnson, the Gaels' top offensive threat, and quick guard Mike Santos led the Gael attack with 14 markers apiece. Swingman Terry Wright enjoyed his finest evening so far, as he netted 12 points.

6-4 forward Mike Sperber paced the Falcons as he scored 17 tallies. Center Greg Starnes scored 13 points while Rick Rosenbach lend support with nine.

Nicholson presentation

Assembly gets youthful offender act

The Youthful Violent Offender Act, sent to the legislature as emergency legislation by the Alameda County Grand Jury and formulated in part by a Dublin resident, has been introduced formally in the State Assembly.

Joining Assemblyman Alistair McAlister, D-San Jose, as co-authors are Assemblymen Floyd Mori of Pleasanton, Dan Boatright of Concord, Bill Lockyer of San Leandro, Richard Robinson of Santa Ana and Richard Hayden of Sunnyvale.

Prior to its approval by the County Grand Jury, it was endorsed on an 8-1 vote by the Oakland City Council, following a presentation by Deputy District Attorney George Nicholson, a resident of Dublin.

Placed in the legislative hopper as AB3001, the bill says that 16- and 17-year olds who commit major crimes such as murder, rape, kidnapping and robbery — or any felony whose victim is over the age of 60 — would lose much of the protection now afforded them as juveniles.

They would be tried as an adult unless a judge issued an explanation, publicly, explaining the case's assignment to a juvenile court.

If convicted, probation would be disallowed and state prison sentences required — unless a similar public explanation were forthcoming from the judge.

If the 16- and 17-year olds are tried in juvenile court, for the aforementioned offenses, a superior court judge would preside and not a juvenile court referee, as presently.

McAlister, in introducing the bill, referred to continuing attacks upon elderly persons by 16- and 17-year olds, often operating in "wolf packs." He said the Youthful Violent Offender Act would "put some backbone into the juvenile justice system."

A similar bill, however, sponsored by state Sen. George Deukmejian, was passed by the Senate but died in the Assembly Criminal Justice Committee last year.

The latter committee is chaired by Allen Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills.

Green beer contest Mar. 17

DUBLIN — Exercise the gullet and make ready the stomach, it's time for — saints preserve us — the Green Beer Drinking contest sponsored annually by the local chamber of commerce.

And mark Mar. 17, St. Patty's Day on the calendar for that highlight trip to the Howard Johnsons where all Irishmen — by birth or honor — will compete after the chamber's monthly luncheon.

Masochists wishing to sign up in advance may contact Nancy Feeley at the chamber office.

Valley firm wins contract

The Dymax Group of Pleasanton has been appointed to represent Parker Industries' complete line of mobile grain handling equipment for five western states, it was announced recently.

Parker, a leading manufacturer of mobile grain handling equipment based in Indiana, asked that inquiries be directed to Donald R. Schnedl, Dymax Group, P.O. Box 57, Pleasanton.
